Bibliography on Rangelands, Forages, Livestock, and Pastoralism

Preface

In response to the Regional Collaborative Programme, which is an ongoing four-year plan of programmes and activities at ICIMOD, and in order to foster dissemination of information related to various aspects of mountain development, the Library at ICIMOD has been bringing out annotated bibliographies on major issues affecting sustainable mountain development.

Previous bibliographies have covered subjects on Women in Mountain Development, Rural Development, Hydrology and Glaciology, Mountain Natural Resource Systems, and Biodiversity.

This Bibliography on Rangelands, Forages, Livestock, and Pastoralism includes 443 titles, all housed in the ICIMOD Library. Among these are monographs, articles from books and journals, and proceedings of seminars and workshops.

All references are arranged under specific fields of study: Rangelands --Ecology, Management and Development; Forage and Pasture Development; Tree Fodder, Agroforestry and Fodder Development; Livestock Production, Management and Development; and Pastoralism and Pastoral Development. They appear country-wise, beginning with countries from within the Hindu Kush-Himalayan Region.

Some documents and articles in Chinese have been listed, since there is an exchange with scholars working in the HKH Region, but for some of these titles, abstracts have not been provided because these documents do not have an English abstract insertion.

This bibliography has been prepared by Sangeeta Rajbhandari, under the supervision of Daniel Miller, Rangeland Specialist, Mountain Natural Resources Division of ICIMOD and with assistance from Raj Bahadur Shrestha, Librarian, ICIMOD.

In the citation of each abstract, the place names and project designations have been retained as published in the materials cited.
